Memoirs Of Madame De La

Such restraint and simplicity is typical of Madame de la Tour du Pin's memoirs. Living through the most turbulent period in modern history, she frankly and unaffectedly records what went on around her--the execution of many of her aristocratic friends; her own flight to Holland, England, America; her last years in Italy; the deaths of her husband and her daughter before her own at the great age of 83.

Mme. de La Tour du Pin wrote these memoirs between 1820 and 1853, yet her early impressions of Marie Antoinette (edgy, unhappy, ""knowing only how to express displeasure, not to act""), Talleyrand, Napoleon, La Fayette, etc. are fresh, curiously convincing and written sharply from personal engagement. The story of her immediate family's escape from ...

Jeanne de Saint-Remy, Comtesse de la Motte, was a highly placed confidence woman whose greatest scam, the "Affair of the Diamond Necklace," sped the fall of the French monarchy. In spite of her self-serving and vengeful memoirs, published in England, most historians believe that she was guilty of the crimes of which she was convicted.
